

STUDY GUIDE

Ephesians 1:15-23

Paul opened his letter with a “doxology”, an expression of praise to God. Take a moment and write down your own doxology.

As a group share a few of these.

Read Ephesians 1:15-23

When you think of praying for others is there a way your prayers should change to be more like Paul's?

What would you add, in order to pray in a similar way?

What are the three main things Paul points out?

In which of these truths do you need to be more aware and gain spiritual understanding? Why?

What have you learned from this passage about God's power?

What difference does this mean in your life?

What does it mean that Christ is our spiritual head?

What are the implications for the church and for your part within the church since we are we are Christ's body and he is the head of the church?

What insight did you receive, or what encouraged or challenged you the most from this passage?

Pray for one another being mindful of the way Paul prayed.
